

Raymond
Farm Center
for Living Arts
& Design

Raymond Farm Center for Living Arts & Design
6370 Pidcock Creek Road New Hope, PA

Artist Nura Petrov Workshop: Kinetic Memory & Walks as Art

July 7 12:30 - 2:30

$25 general; $12 students: Includes Nura's Workshop, Lecture, Open House and Guided tour.

Tickets: raymondfarmcenter.org/events - available online and at the door.

Questions: info@raymondfarmcenter.org

- Walk the Raymond Farm landscape with Nura Petrov. Participants in Nura's workshop will have the opportunity to investigate drawing as a means of recording experience and invoking kinetic memory. Instead of relying on traditional pictorial illusion, lines and shapes realized in the process of going for a walk will become the substance of the work. The resulting charts/diagrams of individual experiences will be superimposed on each other to create a communal art work, each thread gaining importance as it relates to the whole, becoming in the process a visual object beyond the walk itself. Sketching supplies and paper are included.

Open House 1:00 - 4:00 • Guided Tour 2:30 - 3:30

Open House & Guided Tour as a separate event: $15 general; $8 students

Nura Petrov: Ideas and Images in Conceptual Art: Utamaro Revisited

July 7 4:00 - 6:00

- After the house tour, Nura will present a slide lecture and show original paintings and sculptures whose theme is a revisit to Utamaro's work. Kigawa Utamaro was an 18th century Japanese artist whose woodcut prints were a source of inspiration to many western artists including Toulouse Lautrec and Mary Cassatt.